lastly, a word from

Every year I expect it to be less foolish, and every year it is more so

This year's theme is celebrating diversity. Let's see who they've chosen to host. Oh. It's three white men

Now it's time for the flag ceremony. It's a new tradition. It's a way of making the show just that little bit longer

It's supposed to be bad. And the worse it is, the more fun it is

The last few years the semi-finals have weeded out some of the Eurovision lunacy...but not this year

OK...that's three minutes we'll never get back, but look at it this way; we'll never have to hear that song again

I think you'd describe those trousers as 'unforgiving'

If you're watching with pets or sensitive older people, maybe now's the time to put them in the utility room

Give them a nudge, every vote counts...oh, I do hope we get some votes tonight

You keep thinking this will make sense in a moment. But no

It's been a wonderful, wonderful evening. I mean, not musically of course, but in terms of spectacle...
